What is Iris Analysis ?

Iris Analysis, also known as Iridology; is the scientific study of the patterns on the Iris, the colored part of your eyes. The iris is one of the most intricate and fascinating tissue structures in the human body. Iris Analysis or Iridology can provide accurate information about a person's physical health, mental abilities as well as inherent qualities of a person.

Father of Iris Analysis

Dr Ignatz von Peczely, a Hungarian Doctor (January 26, 1826 – July 14, 1911) is titled as the Father of Iris Analysis. While still a child he accidentally broke the leg of an owl. He noticed a black mark appearing in the owl's eye, which over time changed in form and shading. Ignatz von Peczely qualified in medicine at the Vienna Medical College in 1867. He had ample opportunity to study the iris of patients before and after surgery, systematically recording, correlating and publishing his research in the book 'Discoveries in the Realms of Nature and Art of Healing'. His 'Iris Chart' was established in 1880. In 1870, he published his papers describing his experiences, 'Quinine and Iodine change the Color of the Iris', and in 1893 published 'Om Oegen diagnosen', which included his 'Iris Chart' also.
